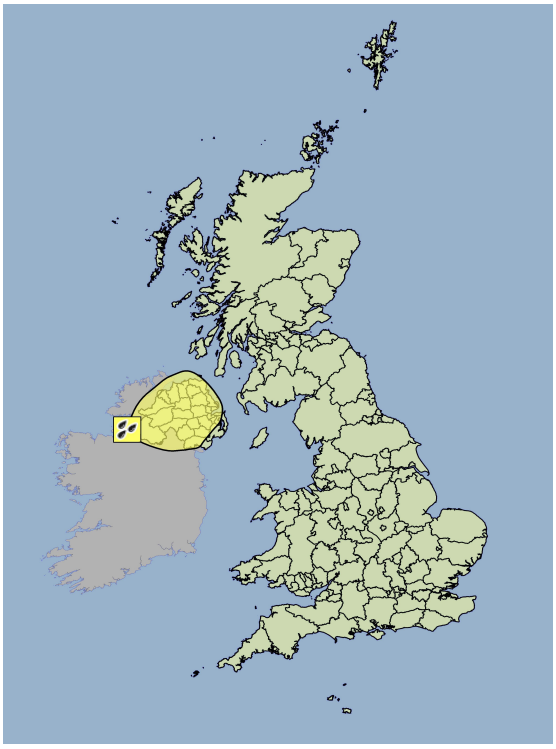
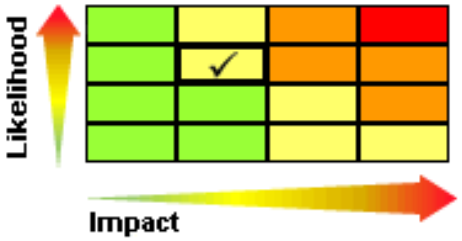
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
Heavy showers are expected to break out across parts of Northern Ireland this afternoon. These showers are likely to be slow-moving meaning that some places affected by showers may see relatively large rainfall totals. However, as is often the case not all places will be affected by these heavy showers and some parts should escape with a largely fine afternoon.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 14:00 on Sat, 09th Aug 2014 until 20:00 on Sat, 09th Aug 2014

Slow-moving, heavy showers are likely to affect Northern Ireland this afternoon before dying out during the early evening.

The public should be aware of the possibility of localised disruption to travel where the heaviest showers occur.
